Synopsis

Julie meets Stephan the postman, and they fall in love. But what will Gnocchi, Julie's very jealous cat, do about it?

Director's bio

Clara Brousse is a young filmmaker based in Paris. She studied for four years at l'Atelier de Sèvres, where she made many short films with other students, exploring different techniques such as sand animation, stop-motion and 2D animation.

Director's note

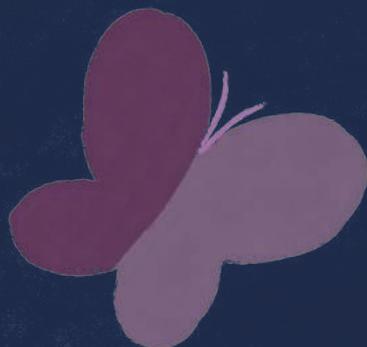

As someone who really loves cats, I thought it would be a funny idea to portray how much space they can take in our everyday lives, and within our relationships. In the movie, I tried to make Gnocchi as smart and sly as I could, because I think that is how some cats really are.

I also liked the idea of the main character having to make a choice between her beloved cat and her new relationship, and not knowing what to do. She wants everyone to get along, but is really helpless in the whole situation because of how stubborn Gnocchi and Stephane are.
