FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What does Kakomando mean?

Kakomando means "little leader/little commander". The name came from the very first pitch and stuck with us. It never changed all throughout production and it guided a lot of our decisions in the writing.

Where is the movie set?

The movie is set in an alternative city placed inspired by Uganda! The setting is base on the Lake Region, whereas the inside of the town is mainly inspired by the capital of Uganda, Kampala.

What were the best part of the project?

One of the best part of the project was to work with our voice actors! We really wanted to have Ugandan children voicing our characters and we managed to get in contact with incredible kids from Reminac TV. We had to work remotely with them, and with each recording we received, we were more and more amazed by how professional they sounded for their role. We also had Louis, also a director in the film voicing Abasi, the father and we tend to forget he did it because his voice and acting are so scary.
